

OAK LANE BOND SALE OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY

Children Pledge Allegiance to Flag, Scout Band Plays and Tank Operates

OPENING IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Sincere Americanism and enthusiasm marked the opening of the Victory Loan campaign at Oak Lane last night. When 250 children from Ellwood School swore their allegiance to the large American flag which hung before the speakers...

The meeting was held in front of the Oak Lane branch of the Free Library of Philadelphia, at Tenth and Chestnut streets and Oak Lane, and although the speakers had been given approximately 600 persons were gathered when the program was begun.

Although the majority of those present were young people, there were many of the older residents in the throng, and drives for bond sales, following each address, netted about $1000 for the loan. A group of about 1000 people had been given approximately 600 persons were gathered when the program was begun.

All of the addresses were made from the steps of the library, over the entrance of which hung a large American flag, illumined by scores of electric lights, and all eyes were focused upon this emblem when the evening was opened by mass singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

Tank Picturesque Scene

A war like touch was added to the scene by the presence of an American tank, modeled after the French light tank, which was used to advertise the meeting. This machine, unmodified and placarded, rumbled through the streets of Oak Lane prior to the meeting in the approved Paul Revere fashion, and when it thundered up in front of the library it was followed by a company of men, women and children.

Charles Harwood and C. H. Kaufman operated the machine, which was brought to this city from Newport overseas. Both of these men saw service in the war.

The singing was led by a cornetist, Valentine Lee, and the program was lived by the Logan Boy Scout Band, an organization of forty-five pieces, which marched and played in splendid style.

Inspired by this music the crowd forgot to be bashful and sang heartily "Over There," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and other songs.

Charles H. Harwood, a four minute man, was the first speaker. He advanced a number of reasons why people should invest their money in bonds. He said in concluding:

"All of our previous efforts are in vain if we fail in this loan. When the 'Iron Division' marches down Broad street they will want to see you waving an American flag in one hand and a Victory Bond in the other."

Other speakers who exhorted the audience to buy bonds were Mrs. Harry Parrott, publicity manager for the women's committee, and Mrs. Charles Stewart, chairman of the women's committee. E. J. Laffery, who is chairman of the Victory Loan committee for the Forty-second district, made a short address, and Mr. Siegart, vice chairman of the committee, introduced the speakers.

Boy Scouts Make Sales The bond sales were made by the Boy Scouts and the women of the committee who were present. All women of this section are taking a live interest in the success of the loan and are eager to see it go "over the top."

"This district raised $2,000,000 for the last loan," said Mrs. William P. Siegart, "and I am sure that we shall be able to exceed that in almost order for the Victory Loan. I am delighted to do my bit in the work as are all of the women working out here."

Another woman worker of this opinion is Mrs. Parrott, who said: "I was delighted to be in the other loans, but this is the best of all. Why? It is the last loan and I would not miss what may prove to be the final chance to do my bit for the United States for anything. I love it."

An earnest worker and leader of the women of the district during the last three loans, Mrs. Winters is enthusiastic as to the chances of the district for this campaign.

"The women of this district have become more efficient during each of the last three loans," she said, "and we are starting out this time with more support and harmony than ever before. It is really a pleasure to do this work, when every one is striving so hard toward the same goal, the success of the Victory Loan."

Those of the different committees who are working for the loan in Oak Lane are:

E. J. Laffery, William P. Siegart, Judge Joseph P. Rogers, E. Gibb Smith, Mrs. F. S. Warr, Mrs. W. P. Siegart, Mrs. H. Parrott, Mrs. E. B. Pendleburg, Mrs. William L. Holmes, Mrs. Harold S. Stone, Mrs. John G. Land, Miss Helen Ritter, Miss E. Hollinger and Miss E. Scholze.

War Engagement Ended New York, April 24.—Mrs. Harlene M. Hyde, of 9 East Sixty-fifth street and Athel Croft, Greenwich, Conn., announced that the engagement of her daughter, Miss Clara Dalbitt Hyde, to Colonel George Montgomery, ordnance department, U. S. A., had been broken by mutual consent. Colonel Montgomery, formerly commandant at the Frankford Arsenal, has recently returned from France.

WATER STREET IS JEALOUS OF CAMAC'S RECENT FAME

Past History Cited Upon Hearing Neighbor's Claims to Greatness and Then Blushes Over Colloquialisms

"Whatdy' mean? Greatest little street in all the world?"

Asked Water street, east of Front, as to the meaning of the question today hawked his papers, which told the story of the Mardi Gras on Camac street, in connection with the Liberty Loan.

"There are others," said little Water street brightly. "Far be it from me to cast aspersions on any of my neighbors. But you'll have to go a long way before you get sweller folks than those who have walked on even my narrow sidewalks."

Stephen Girard doted his heels on the slightly cobble stones that once graced Lafayette, Jonathan Edwards, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, and a whole slew of Philadelphia streets.

"Camac street is a good looking yet, and its got quantity too. Heh, heh, I love me, love I had liberty and quality once, and don't you forget it, the sun rose, and the old street blushed over its slugsy colloquialisms."

"What if Ben Franklin did go to Camac street once in a while? He liked to come to my neighborhood a lot more. And just because I ain't got much of this world's goods in my old days, and because I ain't being made of a fave over by neighbors with their paint brushes and things, nobody considers me much of a Liberty Loan advertisement."

Boy Bond Salesman Picks Distinguished "Prospect"

"Just one more bond, please, Mister?"

"He was a disheveled looking bond salesman but his heart was set upon selling the well dressed and distinguished looking man 'just one more bond.'"

"I'm sorry, Buddy, but I'm already loaded up with them. 'Was the sympathetic reply."

"Aw, you can pay a dollar a week, can't you?" was the wheedling question, the "prospect" really brought forth.

The distinguished looking man again replied in the negative and the would-be salesman again renewed his plea, dwelling lingeringly upon the "only-one-dollar-a-week" end of his argument.

It happened at the Liberty Statue at South Penn Square and the conference between the two was interrupted when the man was called out to the speakers' platform to plead for the loan.

He announced that he and his employees were going to try to take up $5,000,000 of the Victory Loan, as compared with $1,500,000 of the Fourth Loan issue.

The bond "prospect" whom the boy was trying to induce to part with "just one dollar a week" was Colonel Samuel D. Litt.

The reports are connected with the departure for Budapest of Colonel Cunningham, the British representative in Vienna; but the Vossische Zeitung's correspondent says Colonel Cunningham has gone to the Hungarian capital in response to an invitation by Bela Kun's government, which wished to convince him that the reports of murder and robbery in Budapest were baseless.

London, April 24.—(By A. P.)—Rumors that the position of the Hungarian soviet government is shaken are absolutely unfounded, according to the Daily Herald, the Laborite organ, which is championing Bela Kun against the Allies.

The newspaper says that the soviet regime has on the contrary been materially strengthened. The Herald prints a Budapest dispatch, filed in that city on Tuesday, stating that the military situation is improving, that Hungarian resistance has brought the Rumanian offensive to a standstill, and that the frontier is now firmly held.

A state of siege has been proclaimed in the important German port of Hamburg, and the suburbs of Altona and Wandsbeck.

The situation in Bremen has become serious.
